PUT GALVESTON 12 FEET HIGHER

When I say the city is to be raised mean just what I say. Every building, with the exception of the larger business blocks, is to be jacked up from a dozen to sixteen feet in the air to bring the city above sea level.

"The loss of life and damage to property resulting from the tidal wave taught a severe lesson to the town," he continued. "It has been long recognized that a city located at sea level upon an island, nothing more than a sandbar, was n a precarious position. Contracts were let for the construction of a wall to enclose the entire city. This is at mean tide sixteen feet above sea level. As the town itself is but four feet above sea level, there was a dozen feet and more of difference between the level of the city and the top of the walls.

Jack Up the Town.

The big wall which surrounds the city is now nearing completion and contracts are being let to lift the houses to the required height. Residences, hundreds of them, are to be raised by the aid of the lacks until their ground floors are level with the top of the sea wall.

"Larger business buildings and stone structures which cannot be lifted will be left standing as they are. When the lesser structures have been raised the immense hole will be filled with stand and soil pumped within the four sides of the walls and distributed over the city's area by dredges. The first or ground stories of the finest business buildings, hotels and pretentious residences will be converted into basements—something the city of Galveston has never had before. city of Galveston has never had before. Two-story buildings will be one-story buildings.

Fears to Be Dispelled.

Some of the basements in Galveston will have polished hardwood floors and stained glass windows. Queer as the general result will be, it will mean that Galveston is sufficiently high above sealevel to permit its inhabitants sleeping at night, without dreaming of tidal waves and rushing waters. and rushing waters.

"Talking about great country—you have a great lot of country crowded within the city limits of Salt Lake. These wide streets of yours are not like the narrow, dark, unclean streets of most large cities, where a man of the prairies feels cramped. You can erect skyscrapers here You can erect skyscrapers here without keeping the sun from reaching the pavements below. You can turn a corner here without bumping into someone coming your way.

Waynesburg, Pa., Dec. 17.—With the closing of the Farmers & Drovers' National bank last Wednesday, the arrest at Pittsburg today of Cashier J. F. B. Rinehart, charged with making false reports to the comptroller of the currency, and the discovery of an alleged discrepancy amounting to $550,000, business in this city is almost at a standstill. Many merchants sold searcely a dollar's worth of goods today, and some contemplate coloring their stores until the bank difficulty has been adjusted. Sundreds of men, women and children in Waynesburg and the surrounding region had their money deposited in the Farmers & Drovers' bank, and as a result of their inability to get at their savings the holiday season promises to be a sorry one. It is feared that a shortage of cash will cause further business depression.

It was announced tonight there was no reason for depositors to be alarmed, as Rinehart's personal assets were sufficient to cover any amount that might have to be made good. It is estimated here that he is worth considerably more than $1,000,000.

NO MONEY FOR CHRISTMAS COAL LANDS THE Waynesburg, Pa., Dec. 17 .- With the Order of Interior Department Withdrawing Large Areas in the West Modified.

ACTION BY THE PRESIDENT

E. CLARK BEFORE HOUSE

(Special to The Herald.)

Washington, Dec. 17.—The president today issued an order to the interior department to modify its order withdrawing from all forms of entry large areas of public lands in the west reported by the geological survey to be underlaid with coal, so that in future entries upon these lands may be made under all forms of entry excepting as to coal land filings. Vigilance will be exercised in accepting proofs to determine whether the lands sought to be acquired are more valuable for coal or other mineral deposits than for agricultural purposes. cultural purposes.

(Special to The Heraid.) Washington, Dec. 17 .- The house public lands committee today commenced a series of hearings upon that part of the president's message to congress advo-cating leasing of coal lands, instead of selling them as at present. E. E. Clark, interstate commerce commissioner, ap-peared and gave his views on the sub-ject, formed as one of the results of his recent trip to Utah and Colorado to take testimony in reference to relived expenses. testimony in reference to railroad owner-ship of coal lands and the influence of such ownership on the price of coal.

Favors Leasing Plan.

In his opinion better results would be obtained should the government retain title to the coal lands and lease rather than sell them. Leasing, he said, would tend to prevent monopoly, although he admitted, when interrogated on the Pennsylvania, Indiana and Ohio bituminous coal fields, where ownership of coal lands is absolute, that small independent operations are the rule and large corporate holdings rare. The situation in Utah, Wyoming and Colorado, as it was developed in the examination, he concluded, the law limiting coal entries to 160 acres for an individual and 640 acres for an association, was responsible for the alleged frauds, as these amounts for the alleged frauds, as these amounts are too small to warrant requisite expenditures for developing coal mines.

Much Land Secured Honestly.

Asked what percentage of coal lands in the west had been acquired unlawfully, Clark said he was not prepared to say. He thought large areas had been secured honestly, while much lands had been obtained by various evasions of the letter of the law. In Wyoming he said the government had received, as a general honestly, while much land had been obwhile in Utah and Colorado the evidence disclosed that large areas had been taken up as state lands for agricultural purposes, and later sold at $2.50 an acre as agricultural or grazing lands to railroads and big coal companies, when in reality they were very valuable for coal deposits.

President Roosevelt May Soon Be in Active Eruption on Car Shortage Question.

Washington, Dec. 17.—President Roose-ve—It is taking a deep interest in the sit-uation as to car shortage, complaints regarding which have come from many sections of the United States. Some sections of the United States. Some time ago a partial statement bearing on the car shortage was submitted to the president by the interstate commerce commission, and when the more complete report which the committee has under way in the northwest has been prepared it will be sent to the president for his information in the event that he decides to make any recommendations to congress on the subject. He has not yet taken any steps indicating his probable course.

Among suggestions that have been made to the president is that he recommend legislation by congress empowering the government to take charge of railroads and operate them under certain contingencies, especially in a case like the present, where the shortage of cars affects the transportation of fuel and the necessities of life. This proposition, however, it is stated at the White House, has never been even remotely considered by the president.

THE RIGHT IDEA. Grandmother's Methods Down to Date.

Sitting around the stove in one of the eading Drug Stores the other evening was the usual crowd. Politics, religion and about everything else were discussed, when the discussion turned to modern vs. ancient methods of doctoring. One man said, they don't do things like our good old grandmothers did, and if you will sit down and figure out, you will find that more people die from pneumonia, and more people go into consumption today, with all their new fangled ideas, than in the days of our grandmothers. I tell you they want to get back to the good old ways of reating diseases

The Druggist broke in here and says: You're right to a certain extent, but want to show you a preparation that is put up on the same principles of our grandmothers.

'Here is a package of the BROMO COUGH REMEDY; in the package is a BROMO COUGH PLASTER; this plaster is intended to put on the chest in place of the goose grease and turpentine that our grandmothers used. By placing the plaster on the chest it relieves the congestion on the lungs, loosening the cough, making it easier for the medicine to do its work; we sell the BROMO COUGH PLASTERS sell the BROMO COUGH PLASTERS separately at 25c each, so you really get 25c for nothing when you buy this complete package of BROMO COUGH REMEDY for 50c. It was agreed that this was the proper way to treat a cough, and the crowd dispersed.
